

BIG INDUSTRIAL EMPIRE IS FORD PLAN FOR FUTURE

Auto Maker Purchases Large Timber Holdings in Northern Michigan.

(By Russ Simonson.)
(Special to Post-Crescent.)
Detroit, Mich. — Step by step—each step a giant stride—Henry Ford adds to the wealth and power of the industrial monarchy he is creating.
Now Ford has safeguarded the enormous supplies of timber and part of the iron he needs in his factories, not only for his generation, but for generations to come.
Here is the general plan of the newest Ford project, given me by a man who was active in the negotiations:
Ford bought 425,000 acres of land in the Upper Peninsula of this state.
There are huge forests of hard wood, principally maple, on 312,000 acres of land and deposits of iron and graphite on 100,000 acres.
Price is secret.
The purchase price is kept secret, though popular guess puts it above $20,000,000.
Ford is now building a sawmill at Iron Mountain, Mich., and by the end of next year will have a large "body" plant under construction.
He will build the metal and wooden "superstructure" of the Ford car at this plant, shipping them to his assembling plants all over the world direct from the factory at Iron Mountain.
So that the forests may furnish timber all the years that Ford cars are built, Ford has a plan of forest conservation. The timber will be taken out carefully so that new growth is not disturbed and a big force of men will constantly patrol the forests on the watch for fire.
The land Ford has bought was granted some sixty years ago to a railway company, long defunct. It later was bought by the Michigan Iron & Land company and by them sold to a Ford company—the Michigan Iron, Land & Lumber company. The stock is held wholly by the Ford family.
Although there are some iron mines on the land, none of them are now being worked. Ford expects to establish new mines as soon as the sawmill is complete and work on the body plant is under way.
The land is well supplied with railways, three of them traversing it.
The Ford forests are 600 miles from Detroit. They lie in five counties: Iron, Marquette, Mich., in alternate 40-acre sections, the land stretches seventy miles west, and from the town of Channing, Mich., it extends forty-and Mrs. Jay Bullock, prominent in society, will lead to clearing up forged check mysteries in a score of cities, police believed today.

Bullock, operating under a dozen aliases in Omaha, Kansas City, St. Louis, Indianapolis, Kalamazoo, Detroit, Danville and other mid-western towns, obtained $75,000 on worthless checks, according to police. He was specifically charged with passing worthless checks on eleven Chicago banks.
Five miles north, in alternate sections, Favorite Enterprise.
Associates of Ford believe that the purchase of the land was a favorite enterprise of the automobile genius. Negotiations were in progress ten months and the "deal closed" only recently.
Although the bulk of the timber will go to making the bodies of cars, much of it also will be used in the other enterprises of Ford, and some probably will go to building of the homes of his employees. Ford uses in excess of 1,000,000,000 feet of lumber a year.
Work on the Iron Mountain body plant will be rushed. When it is complete it will require about 2,000 workmen.

SCORES INJURED IN STRIKE RIOTS

stones in the balustrade were seized upon as missiles and hurled at police. Bits of paving were also thrown at the helmeted bobbies.
Many of the missiles crashed through windows of government buildings.
Policemen were toppled from their horses. Others were seized by the rioters and dragged to the ground.
Unable to hold their own against the police who came on again, and again in spite of the stoning to which they were subjected, the crowd began to give way and swarm out of the area of fighting.
Its flight was hastened by the confusion caused by maddened horses who had lost their riders, plunging and kicking among them.
Practically all windows in government buildings lining Whitehall and Downing street were broken. When the mob had been driven away, ambulances entered the area and began carrying away the wounded who had been left as they fell or carried into Downing street.
While the riot was at its height, Premier Lloyd George was in conference with 15 mayors of London boroughs on problems raised by the strike. The mayors were told a scheme to care for unemployed was progressing. Lloyd George promised to discuss his plans in a speech at the opening of parliament tomorrow.

SEE POLITICS IN FILIPINO STRIKE

Professional Agitators Are Stirring Up Trouble on Far East Islands.
Manila, P. I.—For the freedom of the Philippines, native printers on American newspapers here struck and precipitated the bitterest anti-American feud since American occupancy began.
Angered by editorials and articles which soberly and concisely set forth the true conditions in the islands and which were printed when the congressional junketing party, on a leisurely tour of the far east, arrived, the printers walked out in a body.
While the three dailies consolidated and began the publication of a community four-page daily with the aid of soldier printers from nearby army posts, the strikers went to work for the native Philippine government.
Purely Political.
The strike was purely political and declared so by the printers in the following ultimatum presented when they struck:
"The undersigned employees of the printing department of the Manila Daily Bulletin (Times and Cable News-American) individually and collectively as workmen and above all as Filipinos, who love and revere our most sacred name as such, being fully and maliciously offended by slenderous assertions against our people and aspirations for liberty and independence, successively published since the arrival of our distinguished guests, members of the congressional party, we hereby respectfully and earnestly protest against those articles for we regard them as malicious, libelous, slanderous and misleading, which tend to create opinions contrary to facts and prejudicial to the Filipino people.

"As a sign of this earnest protest we hereby abstain from working in your shop and printing your paper."
The vehemence and gaucheness of the denials of the strikers that the strike was engineered by Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate and the foremost politician of the islands, makes newspaper owners here sure he had a hand in the walkout.
Continual Strife.
The printers admitted they were promised places in the government bureau of printing during the strike and they accepted the positions.
It is difficult for Americans in the homeland to understand conditions here. Since the coming of Governor General Francis Burton Harrison there has been continual strife between Filipinos and Americans. Americans have been thrown out of government positions and Filipinos installed while a reign of graft and political corruption that would make a New York ward heeler smack his lips, has been under way.
Although the "Juan de la Cruz," which means "the poor people" here, do not wish independence, the struggle is kept hot by the politicians and their propaganda.
There are 10,000 Americans in the islands and 10,000,000 natives.

Farmer Labor League Condemns W. J. Morgan and Senator Lenroot.
Members of the Fourteenth Senatorial District Unit of the Organized Farm and Labor League pledged their support to John Blaine, G. F. Cummings, Elmer Hall, Andrew McDonald, William J. Larson, James Thompson, C. B. Ballard, George J. Schneider, and A. M. Miller at the coming election at their meeting at the Trades and Labor Council hall Saturday night.
William J. Morgan, republican candidate for attorney general, in the opinion of members, has misrepresented and made false statements concerning Blaine, Cummings and Hall and his action in doing so was condemned in a resolution which also opposed the candidacy of United States Senator Irving L. Lenroot.
The meeting was attended by nearly three hundred farmers and union men. A campaign organization was perfected. Among the speakers were Senator A. E. Bowen of North Dakota, Henry Thiel, George Schneider, C. B. Ballard and A. R. McDonald. Another meeting was called for next Saturday night.

"We captured four thousand prisoners north of Taurida where we defeated the second, ninth and forty-second Red divisions," the communiqué said.
"We occupied Nikopol, taking 3,000 prisoners with many guns and a number of armored cars."

NORMA TALMADGE

"She Loves and Lies"

This is the ONE Reason Why You Should See and Hear the PATHE Phonograph NOW

WE LAY this proposition down as the naked truth, that sooner or later every cultured and well-conditioned home will own a phonograph. The question is ---which one?

The purpose of this demonstration sale is to prove that the jeweled Pathe is the one to own.

The Pathe Phonograph is superior, because it differs from other talking machines.

It has invaluable features which other phonographs do not possess.

With the Pathe phonograph, you do not have to worry with needles. Needles scratch and wear out your records, to say nothing of the inconvenience in having to change them every time you change a record.

The Pathe plays with a Sapphire Ball. This Sapphire Ball is round and smooth, is ground under a microscope to exactly fit the grooves in the records and is indestructible.

You can play a thousand records with a single Sapphire Ball, without injury to the records or to the Sapphire Ball itself.

And the tone! You have never heard such marvelous, lifelike tone reproduction in a phonograph, unless you have listened to the genuine Pathe.

Yet the Pathe Costs no more than the ordinary Phonograph

And it is to more thoroughly demonstrate this fact, this marked superiority, that this sale is being held; that 100 genuine Pathe phonographs (Model 10), with their complement of $25 worth of FREE Pathe records, have been allotted to us for this purpose in Appleton and that this same identical sale has been planned for a nation-wide demonstration which will embrace approximately 1,000 of the principal cities of the United States.

THE REASON

In his speech at Indianapolis Senator Harding appears to have made another change of front on the league of nations issue. He declared the present league might be "amended or revised" if its preservation were found necessary to the peace of Europe. This is in sharp contrast to his Des Moines speech in which he said: "I do not want to clarify these obligations. I want to turn my back on them. It is not interpretation but rejection that I am seeking." Senator Harding has repeatedly asserted that the league of nations was dead, that it had been "scrapped," and in one speech he said it could not be revived. Now he is seemingly for the league with reservations and does not look upon it as having been scrapped. Possibly Mr. Root's return has convinced him that it is not altogether a corpse.

Senator Harding's rail fence maneuvering on the league of nations is the entanglement of politics seeking to discredit statesmanship. He says at Indianapolis America must do "everything it can" to prevent future wars. That is precisely what President Wilson has undertaken to do; it is precisely what the league of nations was organized to do, and the league is the only instrumentality in existence, or likely to be created, for that purpose. And the league covenant is the collaborative work of Wilson, Taft, Root and Hughes, so far as America's participation is concerned.

There is just one trouble with the Republican attitude toward peace. It has been an overwhelming disappointment to Republican politicians that the war was fought and won with such glorious achievement under a Democratic administration and the leadership of President Wilson. Throughout the entire record runs persistent and undeviating determination to discredit President Wilson, accompanied by the rancor of jealousy.

When Senator Harding talks about one-man government, when he and peevish senators charge the president with being a dictator, it is a mere joke. Precisely the same charges were made by little men against Lincoln, against Washington, against Cleveland, against Roosevelt. It is always the case when the nation is fortunate enough to elect a really great president. President Wilson has loomed so much above the senate, above any of its leadership in either party, that it could not stomach its own pettiness. A world figure, he has completely dominated the governmental policies. He has done this not only because of his greatness, but because the senate was barren of statesmanship. Without the president's leadership the country would have been in a serious predicament the last four years.

The whole fight upon the president has been the revengeful back-biting of small men, the cheapness of humiliated politicians. The men who have raged and fumed and frothed at the mouth in their attacks upon the president will all be forgotten in a few years, whereas history will reserve a large place for President Wilson and it will grow with time.

It has hurt the politicians because they could not get away from the president's leadership, because they could not confound him or submerge him. And they could not do this because they had nothing better to offer, nothing nearly so good. They carried on the fight upon the president throughout the war, although they were forced to execute his policies, and now they have continued it in the making of peace. He has confused them here again and put them all at sea. With all of the bitter attacks upon the league of nations, it survives and undoubtedly is here to stay.

The logic of events will compel the United States to become a member of the league. Aside from the few mooted points in the covenant, it represents so tremendous an advance toward the goal of universal peace and the destruction of war that it cannot possibly be rejected. The United States would stand before the world convicted for all time of a crime against civilization if it failed to join in this great undertaking for the security of mankind and of free government.

The opponents of the treaty, and nine-tenths of the opposition is pure politics originated to destroy the president, have thrashed about from every conceivable angle to gain their point, but they have failed. The Republican party will come back to the place from which it started, and Mr. Harding will find himself back where he gave his support to this treaty in the senate, before the last chapter is written. They are already so involved in inconsistency and confusion that there is no way out of the dilemma in which they have forced themselves save through recognition of the president's leadership and ratification substantially of his program of peace.

CAN JAPAN COLONIZE?

Japan's population must find more territory. That is the peremptory argument of the Japanese government. The problem of over-population is old. There have always been two ways at attempting the solution. The first way has been to open up new territory, that is to say, to colonize inferior parts of the world and raise the colonies to a higher level of progress.

The second way has been to seize upon the territory of a superior civilization and to live as parasites on the alien race. In the history of the world, only four nations have been distinctly successful as colonizers. They are ancient Greece and ancient Rome; modern Britain and modern America. All the other nations have either been indifferent pioneers or have been frankly parasitic.

Japan has attempted to colonize Korea, Formosa and parts of Manchuria. Nowhere has success attended her policies; and no successful colonizer has ever ruled by sword. The other method of expansion remains. Japan looks longingly in its direction.

If the superior civilizations of America, Canada and Australia were opened to the Japanese overflow population, the problem would be solved for Japan. But the superior civilizations would be brought down to Japan's level. That is history's consistent evidence.

Japan's urgent insistence upon her right to send her people where she pleases is a policy full of danger. It is playing with fire. Japan must know this, for the Japanese elder statesmen are very shrewd. Nevertheless, the game continues. Is it because the Japanese government realizes its people have not yet acquired the pioneer spirit? Is it because the elder statesmen have become convinced Japan can retain her medieval absolutism only by invading lands where the way has been made smooth for them? It is time to ask Japan these questions.

TODAY'S POEM

(By Edmund Vance Cooke)

RACK

I think I know, now, why no tongue or pen,
Or brush or chisel of the cunning hand,
Has pictured heaven to the minds of men
By any sign they cared to understand.

The tale of golden gates and Jaspered walls
Have only served to turn our spirits pale;
The shining streets and infinite, ivory halls
Have seemed a sorry, sublimated jail.

So, too, Mahomet's heaven and its flesh
Can't re-flame the ashen appetite,
And when the Buddhist soul escapes its mesh
It loses all we think of as delight.

But I, who have been banished and return
To the sweet solace of my roof, O, then,
Mine is the inner wisdom, for I learn
Heaven is the joy of getting home again!

SAYS OLD PAINTINGS ARE DISAPPEARING
Paris. — "In a hundred years, unless a great change occurs in the composition of artist's paintings, nothing will be left of modern paintings but unsightly blackened canvases," declares an art critic. "Millions of great pictures are showing rapid signs of decay. Attention to the mechanical side of art must be resumed if modern works are not to perish."

Trifling With Poison

The antiseptic fad dies hard—there are so many millions still to be made out of it.

Of all the practices which the layman with a slight inkling of medical information indulges in, none is more foolhardy and at the same time more unnecessary than the use of corrosive sublimate (bichloride of mercury) as an antiseptic.

This deadly poison accomplishes nothing whatever in the way of germ-discouragement that cannot be as well or better accomplished by half a dozen infinitely safer chemicals. The idea of using bichloride of mercury as an antiseptic was made in Germany, and like many another medical idea so labelled it really has no logical basis.

There are two poisons which have precious little essential purpose even in the hands of the physician and none at all in the hands of a layman. These are bichloride of mercury and strychnine. The childlike confidence which laymen place in these two horrible poisons is pitiable. It leads to so many deplorable disasters.

A solution of a table-spoonful of boric acid in a pint of water will accomplish every desired purpose which a solution of corrosive sublimate (bichloride of mercury) can accomplish, in the hands of a layman, nurse, or physician. But it will never kill anybody. If you are susceptible to psychological influence, then color the boric acid blue, just like the bichloride of mercury solution. The effect on the germs is all the same in any case.

Strychnine (the active principle of nux vomica), is a cruel whip to the nervous system, having the same "indications" which would call for the application of the whip to a tired horse. If you see a drunken fool whipping his horse up a long hill you want to man-handle him. Well, he shows a lot of common sense as compared with the credulous soul who feeds himself strychnine or nux vomica in the fond fancy that it "strengthens his nervous system, heart, or something." It "strengthens" him about as much as the whip strengthens the horse. The strength of the idea perhaps arose from the fact that enough of the strychnine or nux vomica will throw the victim into spasms. Far too often some child gets hold of some sugar-coated or otherwise attractively camouflaged pills or tablets containing strychnine, and pays for his childish curiosity with his life. When that happens the responsible person ought to be punished—but never is even mentioned. There can be no excuse for permitting a layman to have strychnine in his possession. There is fully as much justification for supplying him with cocaine, arsenic and prussic acid for possible emergencies. Strychnine has a remedial effect which warrants the swallowing of a single dose, save when administered directly by a physician.

Sweating in the Armpits

Some time ago you published a formula to use to prevent excessive or odorous perspiration in the axillae. It consisted of a solution of half an ounce of aluminum chloride in three ounces of distilled water. Will this injure clothing? (Miss C. E. M.)

ANSWER—I do not recommend it for clothing. Mop it on the clean skin every alternate day for three or four times, and allow it to dry before dressing.

Some Symphony, George Reports

I am George, remember? I wrote you several weeks ago about my case, and you recommended the Brady Symphony, which I have been playing over on my poor tired metabolism every evening since. Believe me, Doctor, it is some symphony. I never realized one could derive so much benefit in so short a time from such agreeable medicine. It has done me so much good already yet, as they say in Pennsylvania, that my boss, housekeeper, hired girl and general manager (all one person) is now going about halfway with me every night, and she, too, thinks it is good music. More power to your good column. (G. D. S.)

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Monday, Oct. 21, 1895

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fiedler. Joseph Thomas of Nekosco was calling on friends.

Matthew Hogan was visiting friends at Stevens Point and Minneapolis.

Mrs. William Tietz left for Ishpeming, Mich., for a two weeks' visit with her parents.

The Rev. W. D. Ames and family of Fox Lake moved to Appleton and were occupying the Roberts residence at the corner of Rankin and Alton streets.

George McArthur, the linen manufacturer of Baraboo, formerly of Appleton, was calling on friends.

C. W. Hopkins of Mackville had finished removing his household goods to Appleton, where he was to make his home.

E. G. Jones returned home from his western trip. He stated that Dr. P. W. Jones, his brother, was much improved.

The old Fifth ward school building was destroyed by fire the day previous. The new building was ready for occupancy with the exception of seats and blackboards.

A turkey shoot was held at Lehman's park the day previous which was attended by a large number of rifle shots.

John Melzer, formerly with the Appleton Gas company, bought Charles Zillig's saloon on Appleton street and took possession at once.

William Sykes of Grand Chute bought the Viestantz farm of fifty acres in the town of Ellington paying therefor $2,800.

Ottmar Buchman of Hortonville, died at his home in that village at the age of 66 years.

The Woman's Relief Corps was to give a chicken pie supper and apron sale at the store formerly occupied by O. J. Brooks.

William Hagen, late of Hauert & Hagen, was about to establish himself in business at Hortonville.

SMILE AWHILE!

I owed two dollars to a man and him I dodged for seven years, whenever he approached I ran, my pen and quill were in arrest.

No matter how much coin came through, that debt went on from day to day and I was always shy that too, until I was ashamed to pay.

I dared not seek the marks of trade for fear I'd meet that one-time friend, my hair grew thin, my teeth decayed, I wondered how it all would end.

Then yesterday upon the street I met that object of my fears: there was no chance for a retreat. He squeezed my hand and brought the tears.

Said he, "Well, this is good, by Jingo," he made me take a good cigar, and if there had been such a thing, he would have steered me to a bar.

I caught his eye in shameless appeal, I spoke about that loathsome two. Said he, "You're wrong about that deal. It's me that owes a five to you."

"I've always meant to send a check, but, somehow, let the thing go by"—then when I wept upon his neck, I knew my old friend wondered why.

Presidential Campaigns

By Frederic J. Haskin

XXIV. The Surprise of 1916

Washington, D. C.—The campaign of 1916 will doubtless live long in the memories of men as an election when thousands of persons, including the Republican candidate, went to bed believing that the Republicans had won and woke up to find that the reverse was the case.

All of the Republicans and many of the Democrats seemed to believe that it was a Republican year, and the whole strategy of the Republican campaign seemed to be based on the assumption that the Republicans would surely win, provided they did not commit any egregious blunder.

The rift in the Republican ranks, caused by the defection of Roosevelt four years before, had been astonishingly healed. Roosevelt had lunched with Hughes, the Republican candidate, and had emerged with the announcement that he and Hughes were in complete accord. All of the Republican papers announced that the Grand Old Party was once more a flawless unit in the battle for righteousness and prosperity. Democratic candidates, however, did not fail to remark that the Republican platform of 1916 bore no resemblance whatever to that of the Progressives in 1912, and that a good many Progressive leaders were not obviously following their late champion back into the fold. Roosevelt, who was pictured as a small and reluctant creature. Certainly it was not the husky animal that had caused so much commotion four years before.

A Say-Nothing Campaign

The Hughes campaign was distinguished by its remarkably negative character. Never, in fact, has such another non-committal campaign been conducted in this country, unless the present year be considered as breaking all previous records in that direction. Mr. Hughes announced that he was for undiluted Americanism, but both he and his supporters refrained from any exact definition of that quality. He also announced himself as in favor of a very conservative view of the presidential office, stating that in his opinion the President was merely the administrative head of the Government and not the leader of his party. He advocated a higher tariff as necessary for the interests of labor, but indicated that the making of this tariff was up to Congress and not to him.

The reasoning on the part of Republican leaders which lay back of this non-committal campaign is not hard to guess, nor was it then employed for the first or for the last time. It was a fact admitted by the leader of the party, that a host of antagonisms against himself. The pro-Germans were against him, because he had written rather sharp notes to Germany, and the red-rag patriots and pro-allies were incensed that he had not declared war on Germany. The Irish were more or less peeved about his attitude toward Ireland, and the Catholics did not like his Mexican policy.

These professional politicians who make campaigns doubtless argued that the wise thing to do was to sit tight and let these animosities beat the Democrats. It was not necessary, they reasoned, for their candidate to take any very positive stand, and it was imperatively necessary that he should not provoke any antagonisms on his own account. He was chosen as a man of high character and fine record whom no one had anything against, and his idea was to keep him thus unsullied. Hence he was put in a glass case of conservatism, and set to blowing pretty soap bubbles of platitude and generalization, while Mr. Wilson and his supporters went about the country hurling hard bricks of fact about what they had done and what they were going to do.

Are Voters Intelligent?

This Republican campaign was based upon an idea which is in direct discord with the theory of Democratic government, and has often proved to be in direct accord with the facts of it. The theory is that the American voter is a person of independent judgment and good sense who votes always in obedience to those qualities. The fact has often appeared to be that he is blinded by personal prejudices, and votes according to his emotion of the moment, throwing cold judgment to the winds.

In this case the prejudice theory did not seem to work to perfection. Wilson at least offered a definite statement of aims and intentions, while Hughes offered nothing but opposition to Wilson and the pleas of party loyalty. No one has ever decided exactly what happened, but it might be said that when the smoke cleared away, the Republican party was found prostrate on the field with the tracks of the independent voters all about it. In California, which was the decisive state in the election, the voting was so independent and the tickets were so heavily and variously scratched that it took a long time to count the vote and many minor errors were made.

What happened in California has always been regarded as a mystery. Senator Hiram Johnson, running on the Republican ticket and ostensibly supporting Hughes, carried it for himself by a colossal majority. Yet it gave a majority to Wilson for President. Some hazarded the guess that the independent and progressive element back of Johnson was not wholly satisfied with the Hughes campaign. That progressive vote which Roosevelt led back to the fold did not seem to be as large as it had been when he led it away in 1912. The West, which had given Roosevelt most of his votes in 1912 was what carried the day for Wilson in 1916. The result seemed to confirm what had been indicated four years before—that there is really a body of independent and thinking voters in the country who will of travel in partisan leading strings, but will follow a leader of other party if they think he is offering something definite.

Labor Makes Political Progress
Next to this emergence of an independent vote, perhaps the most interesting thing was the participation of labor in the campaign. It will be remembered that in 1908 the American Federation of Labor had for the first time taken a partisan stand. It was generally agreed afterwards that the labor leaders had failed to deliver the labor vote both that year and the following one. Nevertheless, the significance in the fact that organized labor had entered partisan politics without disrupting its organization, as it had done at least twice before. In 1916 labor had more inducements for supporting the Democratic party than ever before. The Adamson eight-hour law had just been put on the books in the midst of a storm of denunciation from capital and of approval from labor.

Whether labor really voted the Democratic ticket in 1916 was at least a moot question. The big industrial centers of the East went Republican as usual, thus indicating conclusively that the labor vote was at least divided there. On the other hand, there seemed to be no doubt but that labor in many western states was fairly solid for the Democrats.

The fairly solid men, especially in the West, voted for Wilson in large blocks. This was perhaps the nearest thing to a "class vote" which had ever been cast in the United States. No one thought much about it at the time, but with the intensification of class feeling that the war brought about, and the recent formation of a Farmer-Labor party, it begins to become apparent that, for better or for worse, parties based upon class and occupational interests are more certain to supersede the ancient and now largely meaningless division into Democratic and Republican parties.

The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medical, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Q. How tall must a boy be in order to get into West Point? S. S.

A. The War Department says that the minimum height requirement for admission to the United States Military Academy has been changed to 64 inches for candidates of all ages instead of the former height of 64 inches for those 17 years of age and 65 inches for those 18 years old and upward.

Q. What is the number of candle-power hours in a kilowatt of electricity? W. H. S.

A. The Bureau of Standards says that the common tungsten (or Mazda) lamps now in use all take about one watt of power per candle, consequently one kilowatt-hour gives about 1,000 candle-hours. The exact amount depends on the size of the lamps used, for the larger lamps are more efficient than the smaller ones; the 100-watt gas-filled lamp is supposed to give exactly one candle per watt, while the largest and smallest sizes in common use run 30 to 40 per cent above and below this in efficiency.

Q. What part of the country's exports are manufactured products? C. N. D.

A. During this year manufactures form 52 per cent of United States exports. Probably the total value of such exports will reach the sum of $4,000,000,000 in comparison with a little more than $1,000,000,000 in 1914.

Q. What per cent of the passenger automobiles purchased are used for pleasure only? W. S. J.

A. The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce says that a survey taken shows that only 10 per cent of passenger automobiles are used only for recreation.

Q. How many ostriches are there in the United States? N. B. C.

A. According to a report of the National City Bank, there are about 10,000 ostriches in this country at present.

Q. Is the fact that furniture is venerated, a sign of poor workmanship? F. D.

A. Much of the finest furniture is venerated in special parts. It is necessary to use veneration in order to get the beautiful grains that are seen in drawer fronts, for instance. The test of good furniture is the care and precision with which veneration is done rather than the lack of it.

Q. Who is the author of the lines "Count that day lost whose low descending sun views from thy hand no worthy action done?" C. W. S.

A. According to authorities on quotations, the author of this is unknown.

Q. I have an Army Colt 45 Automatic that I found about a year ago on the seat of my automobile. Am I violating a law in keeping it? If so what shall I do with it? R. J. B.

A. The War Department says that if you have an Army revolver in your possession, no matter how it came into your possession, you could be accused of possessing Government property without any Government license for same and the offense might land you your citizenship or even a year in prison. It is suggested that you take the revolver to your nearest Army Recruiting Station, stating how you obtained it and in this way you will avoid any penalty in case you were found with it in your possession.

Q. What should be served with a salad? F. V.

A. Cheese, straws, crisp crackers, small sandwiches or nut bread, may be served with meat and vegetable salads while sponge cake or angel food spread with preserves may be substituted with a fruit salad.

Q. What can be done with the skimmings from sugar cane syrup? F. B. T.

A. Some syrup makers allow the skimmings to settle for 24 hours, drawing off the clear juice and boiling it over with fresh juice. Care must be taken that the receptacles are thoroughly clean so that skimmings will not sour rapidly. Some farmers feed all skimmings while fresh to hogs. If a silo is being filled while boiling syrup, a good utilization of the skimmings might be to work them in with the silage while fresh.

Q. What are names of the "Three Wise Monkeys"? M. M. M.

A. The "Little Apes of Nikko" sometimes known as the "Three Wise Monkeys" are Mizaru, who sees no evil, Kikazaru, who hears no evil, and Mazaru, who speaks no evil.

Q. Is a child entitled to war risk insurance if the father was killed in France, and if the mother, who is also dead, was unmarried? G. V. L.

A. The Bureau of War Risk Insurance says that the illegitimate child of a deceased soldier is entitled to compensation, if such soldier acknowledged the child as his.

Q. What is an oriel window? A. M. W.

A. An oriel window is a bay window of an upper story, supported by brackets. In France and England the oriel window is a feature of late Gothic or early Renaissance style of architecture.

Confessions of a Bride

(Copyright 1920, by The Newspaper Enterprise Association)

THE BOOK OF DEBORAH
Ann Brings Back a Strange Pet From Her Honeymoon

After Deborah Burns had gone home to keep her engagement to play golf with that particularly nice and devoted Ted Moore, I was really glad that she and I had failed to exchange confidences. It does seem so awfully vulgar to complain to anybody about one's husband! I sat in my swing in my beloved pine grove and tried to read a supposedly profound article on mental control and how to acquire it in one evening! Absurd! I was delighted to have my reading interrupted by Jim's auto horn.

Ann waved to me to run over to their house—she held up a furry bundle in her arms as if she had a treasure to show me. I decided that she had discovered that "Autumn muffs" are fashionable. And so I soon found myself among those present on the doorstep when Jim Lorimer and his bride came home to settle down for good. I hoped it was "for good."

"But Deb would never have come home with him—so!" I thought. "Deb would have wanted to enter her kingdom with her husband—unobserved. She would have made her homecoming a sort of ceremonial and Jim is poet enough to have liked the solemnity. But Ann—the unimaginative little goose! Never—never can our Jimmy-boy's dreams of the ideal come true with that babe!" I used the name by which Chrys addresses her.

Ann leaped from the car without halt and ran toward me to exhibit her furry prize. I regarded the thing coldly.

"My goodness! What are you going to do with a young raccoon?" I gasped.

"Carry him around wherever I go!" Ann replied. "All the girls at the beach have 'em—if they can get 'em. Isn't Ginger too sweet?" She cuddled the small beastie in her arms. "I don't know!" I murmured. "Maybe—your husband does!"

"All I know is that the women take 'em to teas instead of pups!" said Jim glumly. "I missed the apologetic smile with which Jim usually dignifies Ann's silliness."

"Hold him a minute, Jim!" ordered Ann, thrusting her pet into her husband's hands. "Ginger knows Jim and me, you see," Ann explained, as we entered the house. "But I'm afraid he'd be awfully peevish if I handed him to a servant."

"By all means spare the beast's feelings," I said, but I didn't add the remainder of my thought which was, "never mind Jim's!" Then aloud: "I guess if you want to keep that raccoon you'd better give him your personal attention!"

I knew most of Ann's staff of helpers. They were middle-aged. They had graduated from Mother Lorimer's staff at the big mansion. They had not been trained to be as patient as a husband, and I could see what might happen to that raccoon, he might get lost before he was many days older, unless Ann watched him like a baby!

"Like a baby?" I couldn't help repeating the words!

I felt awfully sorry for Jimmy. The women of his own family never cultivate freak fads, never wear purple socks, never calcimine their noses. And Deborah Burns is like us. If Jim had married his first love, he never would have had to listen to this kind of twaddle.

"Come to her's mummy!" murmured Ann, after she had thrown off her things and picked up Ginger. "Mummy will get Sweetie something for him's dinky! Wite away!"

I thought I heard Jim swear! But I didn't dare to look his way!

SAYS SABBATH IS DESECRATED HERE

Lawrence College Man Declares World Forgets Real Purpose of Sabbath

"If we follow the ten commandments, we will have to revise our code of work or find some reason why we are under a different dispensation than the children of Israel," said Dr. L. A. Youtz in a speech on the "Idea of the Sabbath" before the student body of Lawrence College at Chapel Monday morning.

"The origin of the Sabbath day or the seventh day as a day of rest is associated with the creation. The world was created in six days and on the seventh God rested from his labors. In ancient times, pleasure as well as work was barred on Sunday, by law. George III put the ban on Sunday entertainment where a fee was charged. But in the United States, we have made little legislation relative to Sabbath observing."

A few weeks ago, I had occasion to mail a letter about eight o'clock one Sunday evening," continued Dr. Youtz. The streets were crowded, everything was going full blast. People seeking amusement thronged the streets, going in and out of the theatres while there were only a few in the churches.

"What is Sunday for anyway? Is it a day on which one can do all the little odds and ends of jobs and 'catch up' as it were, or is it a time to prepare ourselves physically, mentally and particularly morally for what is to come?"

"We say the situation is different today than in those ancient times, but we say this to accommodate ourselves. Some students prepare lessons on Sunday, but I believe Sunday may be spent to a better advantage to yourself."

NEW LONDON GIRL HURT IN ACCIDENT

Milwaukee Man's Automobile Crashes Into Freight Train At Greenville

Failing to see an Ashland Division freight passing over the Chicago and Northwestern crossing at West Greenville, H. M. Mitchell, Chicago, ruined his automobile about 1:30 o'clock Monday morning by crashing into the train. Miss Viola Bates Shioto street, New London, who was with him in the machine, was badly hurt but Mr. Mitchell escaped injury.

The couple was returning to New London from Appleton and did not observe the train, because of the darkness, in time to stop the machine. The front of the automobile was badly wrecked. Miss Bates had one ear torn nearly off and was bruised about the arms and legs. She was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital in a physician's automobile.

"For years I suffered with stomach trouble and rheumatism," continued Mr. Odell, "and for months I was in a very bad fix. I lost my appetite and what little I did eat formed gas on my stomach that bloated me up, causing shortness of breath and sharp pains around my heart. All of my joints ached and I was so stiff and sore I couldn't do a thing without suffering agony. When I stooped over my back felt like it would break and it was all I could do to get up and down the stairs. I never had a good night's rest and was just worn out and felt bad all the time."

"I saw in the papers how Tanlac was helping others so I decided to try it myself and I commenced to improve before I finished my first bottle. My appetite returned and I can now eat anything without one bit of trouble afterwards. My rheumatism has entirely disappeared and I sleep like a log every night and wake up feeling fine. I feel as well as I ever did and I will always have a good word to say for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Appleton by John E. Voigt, F. O. Brown, Shioto street, H. M. Sattler, Bear Creek; H. E. Abend, Dale, R. E. Lowell, Little, Chute, adv.

NEWS OF INTEREST FROM COUNTY AND STATE

BIG INCREASE IN U. S. POTATO CROP

Badger Market Letter Avers Prices Will Not Reach Last Year's Levels

Madison, Wis.—The Market Division's News Letter to appear this week will have the following to say concerning the potato crop and market:

"The 1920 season opened with a heavy planting in the state even though seed was extremely high. About 303,000 acres were planted, or an increase of 3,000 acres over the 1919 planting. This acreage was estimated on October 1 to give a yield of 31,315,000 bushels or about 3,000,000 more bushels than were produced in 1919. Commercial carlot shipments were estimated on October 1 to total 23,100 cars as compared with the final estimate of 20,800 cars for 1919. Not only is there an increased crop this year in Wisconsin but there is a marked increase in the total crop for the United States. The October estimate by the Crop Reporting Service gives the total estimated yield for the United States as 414,936,000 bushels as compared with 367,501,000 bushels produced in 1919. This increased yield in the country of 57,435,000 bushels will no doubt greatly affect the market and prices are not expected to reach anywhere near the record prices of last year."

"Sixteen out of the seventy-one counties of the state produce no commercial surplus of potatoes. The leading producing counties are Waupaca, Chippewa, Portage, Waushara and Langlade."

"The prices paid so far this season have fluctuated considerably. The season opened up with dealers in the first part of Sept. paying $175-$2.00 cwt. for U. S. Grade One potatoes. The price began to decline along the middle of the month and reached the low level of $1.00 per cwt. Some few sales were even reported as low as 90c cwt. The price gradually raised again in a short time until at present the prevailing price paid to farmers is $1.25-$1.50 cwt. for U. S. Grade One Round Whites and 50-75c cwt. for U. S. No. 2 stock. In Chicago U. S. No. 1 stock is bringing $1.75-$1.85 cwt. with poorly graded stock at $1.50-$1.65 cwt."

"Because of the present market conditions there is a tendency on the part of the farmers to store and there is an increasing desire on the part of farmers for market information to

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL IS SURPRISE BRIDE

Stevens Point Young Lady Keeps Her Wedding a Dark Secret

Stevens Point, Wis.—"I came up for my wife," said Michael Flanagan, of Janesville, a visitor at the George J. Besnah home, here. Mrs. Besnah laughed.

"What are you talking about—wife?" she asked.

"There she is," he said, turning to Clara Jeanette, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Besnah.

Then came explanations. Miss Besnah, who will be 18 years old in December and until last Friday was a student in the Stevens Point High school, went down to Janesville in the summer to visit her sister, Vicienne, who was married to J. E. Brundage, on June 25. Clara had for five or six years known Mr. Flanagan, a chum of Mr. Brundage and a frequent visitor at his friend's home. On Aug. 10, they went over to Rockford, Ill., twenty-six miles away, and were married. The bride returned to her sister's home, saying nothing of the marriage, and later returned to her parents' home in Stevens Point. She re-entered school in August.

He is manager of the stock department of the Parker Pen company at Janesville. Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan left on a honeymoon trip and will be at home at Janesville after Nov. 1.

COMMISSION TO DECIDE FONDY BRIDGE SQUABBLE

(Special to Post-Crescent.) Madison, Wis.—The matter of fixing the portion of the cost of the new Scott street bridge in Fond du Lac to be paid by the Eastern Wisconsin Traction Co., is now in the hands of the engineering department of the Railroad Commission and a decision in the matter is expected within a few weeks.

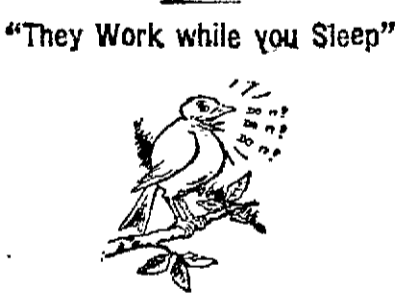

The plans for the bridge, were agreed upon by both the city of Fond du Lac and the Eastern Wisconsin Electric Company and were approved by the Railroad Commission, but the city and company were unable to agree on the portion of the cost to be borne by the latter and appealed to the Commission. A hearing was held and the transcribed testimony has just reached the engineers.

SAYS MEN FAINT MORE EASILY THAN WOMEN

(Special to Post-Crescent.) London.—All London is discussing the question—Are women too weak to serve as jurors? And all because a woman juror recently fainted when a blood-stained razor was exhibited during a trial.

"The one instance of fainting proves nothing," says Dr. Elizabeth Knight, of the Women's Freedom league. "The liability to faint is a matter of constitution and not one of sex."

On Dr. Bernard Hollander, nerve specialist, says: "In these days one hardly ever sees a fainting woman. Fainting men far outnumber fainting women."

Some doctors claim that the effects of war made many men subject to fainting spells.

And it is generally agreed that the weaker sex is not the weaker when it comes to the point in discussion.

VETERANS SLOW TO ASK FOR U. S. VICTORY MEDALS

(Special to Post-Crescent.) Philadelphia—Uncle Sam is doing his best to pin medals on his soldiers but he can't find the soldiers.

Veterans are applying for the Victory medals at the rate of 6,800 a day, which is far below the capacity of the special staff employed here by the government to make and distribute the medals. To date 379,214 medals have been awarded, or 10 per cent of the 3,757,624 number needed to give each veteran a medal.

For service in this country 117,194 medals have been issued and for foreign service, 79,092. Of the medals with battle clasps, 56,005 have been issued with three clasps, this being the largest number of battle clasp medals. There have been 53,510 with two clasps, 52 with nine clasps, nine with ten clasps and two with 11 clasps.

RACINE COLLEGE TO BE REOPENED SOON

(Special to Post-Crescent.) Madison, Wis.—The decision of the Episcopal church to reopen Racine College as a training school spoils the hopes of the State Board of Education to eventually install a Junior College in the Racine institution. It is known the members of the State Board had discussed the proposition but it appears the deed for the valuable property of the Racine College provided that it should always be maintained as an Episcopal college or revert to the heirs of the donor. Had the state been able to secure the property for a Junior College, it would, of course, been non-sectarian.

McCOY TO SPEAK HERE ON FRIDAY

Democratic Candidate for Governor To Spend Day in Outagamie County

Candidates for state office are beginning to turn their eyes to the Fox river valley and Outagamie county and at least two will invade this territory this week.

The first visitor will be William J. Morgan, candidate for attorney general, who is to speak here Thursday night. Friday night Col. Robert B. McCoy, Sparta, democratic candidate for governor, will deliver an address here. The place for the meeting has not been selected.

Col. McCoy expects to spend all day Friday in the county, speaking in Seymour, Dale, Bear Creek, Greenville, Shiocton, Oneida, Black Creek, Kaukauna, Little Chute, Kimberly and Appleton. He will begin his speaking tour early in the morning and wind it up here in the evening.

The most interesting thing about the McCoy candidacy is the large number of republicans who are supporting him. That is evident in Appleton where at least one staunch republican is on McCoy's state committee. Several other men who have voted the republican ticket practically all of their lives declared they would support the democratic candidate for governor this year.

County politicians are getting down to brass tacks this week. Election day is only two weeks away, leaving little time to waste if the candidates wish to see the majority of voters. Little informal conferences of candidates are being held almost daily to map out the plan for action and to insure a large vote in the coming election.

Messenger Declares She Delivered Parcel to Anderson Girl After Fire

Superior—Deputy Coroner William M. Downs went to Wascott Monday morning to make a careful search of the graveyard there in an effort to learn where Edward J. Sailstad, Eau Claire manufacturer, is believed to have secured the human bones he planted in his bungalow at Lake Nebagamon before he is alleged to have disappeared on Aug. 26 with Miss Dorothy Anderson, his stenographer. In a report to Deputy Downs on Saturday, Henry Meyers of Wascott asserted the opinion that Sailstad may have exhumed some bones from the local cemetery. When they learn where the human remains found in the ruins of the bungalow came from, the Douglas county authorities will be confronted with but one problem, that of finding the "missing" man and his stenographer.

Acting Chief A. G. Fiskett of the Duluth police department, stated on Sunday that he was positive Sailstad had left Duluth.

Traces Are Few
"We are combing the town for the man, but we can get no trace of his movements after Aug. 28," said Capt. Fiskett. "Three or four people had seen them, but not since that date. They may have gone through Canada on the way to the sea. I have given pictures of them to all railroad and steamship officials. They have a long start on us, you know."

According to deputy state fire marshal, Charles Good, Sailstad had in his pocketbook when he disappeared, about $4,000. He will investigate new clue that reached him on Sunday when Miss Theresa McComb, a messenger girl for the Western Union Telegraph company, told him that on the second day after the fire he had been called to a local hotel by a woman. The woman gave her a package, she said, and instructed her to carry it to Marcus & Co., loan bank. The girl said that the package contained jewels and that the clerk gave her some money in an envelope to return to the woman in the hotel.

Identifies Photo
"I am positive the woman was Miss Anderson," said the messenger. She made that statement after viewing the "Sunshine Girls" picture.

Mrs. Leona Sailstad, wife of the missing man, continues in her belief that her husband perished in the fire and that the insurance companies will be forced to pay her the $60,000 insurance he carried.

FATHER GLAD HE KILLED CHILDREN

Wife, Who Is Ill, Is Ignorant of Her Husband's Awful Crime.

Lansing, Mich.—Earl Roop, 31, a farmer living east of Lansing, has confessed that he buried his two little daughters alive—"I'm glad I killed them"—and he has given himself up to the county sheriff.

"My wife was ill—there's a six-day-old baby at our house—so I took little Dorothy, age three, and Bernice, age two, away so they wouldn't bother her," Roop told authorities.

"We walked out into a field of mud and slime at Red Cedar creek. I gave the little ones chloroform and they went to sleep. While I made a small hole in the ground, Dorothy partially woke up. She walked, and I carried Bernice to the hole. While I held their heads under water, so they wouldn't suffer, I pushed enough slime and mud over them to cover their bodies up.

"My crop failed this year. I couldn't provide for the tots if a hard winter came. They are better off where they are."

Officials, belied Roop insane. But they went to the burial spot and found the bodies.

Roop's wife does not know of the tragedy. She is making a brave fight to save the life of her tiny son.

Roop expressed a hope that he would be put where he could earn a proper living for the remaining two in the little household. He was unable to pass simple mental tests.

When a boy he was shot through the eye and was also struck by a piece of steel in a Lansing shop. Either injury might have affected his brain, it is said. Roop bore a reputation of hard work and love of family, among his neighbors.

MORGAN TO SPEAK HERE ON THURSDAY

Candidate for Attorney General To Throw Hooks Into N-P League

(Special to Post-Crescent.)

Milwaukee, Wis.—William J. Morgan, republican candidate for attorney general, will continue his state campaign with a speech Monday night at Fond du Lac. Mr. Morgan's campaign will be as extensive as his time and funds permit and will be made by automobile. He will speak at least twice every day, and whenever possible three times a day. Tomorrow he speaks at Ripon in the afternoon, and Oshkosh at night; Wednesday, Berlin at noon, and Watoma at night; Thursday, New London at noon, and Appleton at night.

That the people have taken much interest in what he has to say about the Non-Partisan league is evidenced by the number of farmers from two counties who drove into Watertown to hear his Saturday night speech.

It is Mr. Morgan's purpose to make a thorough campaign in the state, preaching the doctrine of straight publicanism, and exposing the working of the Non-Partisan league. He has announced himself as being opposed to John J. Blaine for Governor, and states that Robert McCoy, Democratic nominee in the man whom the people of the state should look to, to defeat the Non-Partisan league. Politicians of the regular school made every effort to dissuade Mr. Morgan from this course, but he invariably replies that it was the campaign program he made before the primary and he has every intention of keeping faith with the people.

BRITAIN PREPARES TO BATTLE SOVIET

"Red" Activities in England Have Caused Much Concern to Government.

(By J. H. Duckworth.)

(Special to Post-Crescent.)

London—Some startling disclosures have been made of the plans of British bolsheviks for a revolution in England and their arrangement to establish local soviets.

While too much importance is not being attached to these grandiose schemes to devastate England as Russia has been, I learn that two very significant steps have been taken by the government, steps that prove that the authorities are by no means ignoring the possibilities of an attempt being made to start what Lenin calls "heavy civil war" over here. These two precautionary measures are:

1. A citizen army, practically a "white guard," has been secretly organized to cope with any "serious rioting" that may break out.

2. Sir Edward Geddes, minister of transport, has made complete arrangements to publish an official government newspaper in the event of revolutionists seizing the plants of privately-owned newspapers.

The incriminating documents that have been submitted to authorities indicate that the revolutionary organizations of the council of action, although they were at first constituted for calling a general strike upon the pretext of "no war with Russia," remain in readiness for any other occasion.

The "council of action" was formed on August 8. It is now shown that within two weeks after this arrangement was being actively made to establish local soviets.

"At the instigation of the authors of the scheme is to carry out a revolution without consulting the workers—thereby following the Russian method"—is shown from one paragraph in the report of an "informal meeting" called at the request of the national council of action (which includes so-called moderate labor leaders like Adamson, Clynes and Thomas). It states that the national council suggests that "or-

ESCAPES CREMATION BY VERY NARROW MARGIN

Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.—As Xavier Trojanowski stood beside two cows in his barn lightning struck the building, killed the cows and started a fire which destroyed the barn. He was taken from the structure by his daughter. The flames destroyed the barn, a large quantity of new grain, the entire hay crop and some machinery. Mr. Trojanowski's loss amounts to $2,000, covered by insurance. While seated at the table eating their noon-day meal, Mr. and Mrs. Zeerburg were stunned when lightning hit the building. They regained consciousness and escaped before the flames destroyed the building. The loss was $3,000.

Ordinary methods of procedure in the appointment of delegates to the local councils of action should be dispensed with unless branches can be immediately called together. In other words, these local soviets are to be self-appointed, with unlimited powers to run a general strike just as they wish.

The main features of this scheme for bringing about a revolution are:

1. The capture by labor of the local co-operative society, so as to ensure the distribution of food to the strikers and their families.

2. The commandeering of transport, including petrol, for the obtaining and storing of which the Railway-men's union apparently has a method already worked out.

3. A propaganda and publicity department. In the operation of this (as all the newspapers may be suppressed) the telegraph section of the post-office workers and railway unions are to co-operate as "special sources of information," which clearly means tapping the wires and the telephones.

4. Formation of cycle corps to keep centers in touch with each other and with the national council of action.

5. Conscription of labor; for, in the words of one of the sub-committees, "the thing that is most to be avoided, and likely to produce disorder, is idleness, and hard work would provide an outlet for the energies of all."

After this exposure there can be no question of what, at any rate, are the real aims of the labor soviet over here, despite the assurance of such men as Clynes and Adamson. They, together with the bulk of the British working men, would be swept aside like cobwebs by the international revolutionists.

BOTH CANDIDATES SATISFY BUSINESS

President of American Bankers' Association Does Not Fear Election.

(By George B. Waters.)

(Special to Post-Crescent.)

Washington—Who becomes president will not make the slightest difference in business. Both the candidates are safe for business.

These are the words of Richard S. Hawes, St. Louis, president of the American Bankers' association, the first delegate here to attend the bankers' convention, Oct. 18-22.

No Panic Looms.

Hawes was asked if there was going to be any panicky condition before or after election that would be blamed onto the political outcome, lack of confidence, as it were.

"In fact, I think business is so well satisfied that it is paying no attention whatever to the campaign," continued Hawes. "I am positive we will have a good president."

A more neutral stand could not be imagined than Hawes takes, yet when he is not speaking for the A. B. A., but is giving his personal views, he expresses himself fearlessly. On the eve of the bankers' convention he would not be quoted on the league of nations because it had been dragged into politics, despite the fact that he has a pronounced opinion.

Hawes is head of an organization with 22,800 banker members, representing the greater part of the world's wealth and being able at the drop of the hat to make business good or bad, and the people happy or sad.

Many Big Problems.

Hawes says this, the organization's forty-sixth annual convention, will be the greatest it has ever held. They

WANTS U. S. "SAVERS" TO GET EXPORT PROFITS

(Special to Post-Crescent.)

Washington—When the American Bankers' association meets in convention at Washington, Oct. 18-22, a new step, for men of so much means, will be taken.

Richard S. Hawes, president of the organization, says encouragement and authorization of a co-operative plan for a $100,000,000 export corporation will be given. It will be promoted by the bankers, Chamber of Commerce and National Foreign Trades council.

The plan is to have the people of America become the stockholders and share the profits.

"We can never get into the export business without interesting the American saver," declares Hawes.

have problems of grave concern to solve. Every financial interest in the western hemisphere will be here, private bankers, members federal reserve banks, governors of federal reserve banks, president of federal land banks and owners of joint stock land banks. I asked Hawes what he considers the biggest problem before the country.

"The problem," he said, "is to write an efficient and economically sound tax law. This is by all odds the biggest problem."

Hawes has a plan that he will submit to the bankers to have a commission of finance created, composed of bankers, representatives of the National Chamber of Commerce and members of the National Manufacturers' association, to advise congress how to write the law.

"It will take trained economists to do it," said Hawes. "The surtax provisions of the income tax law should be rewritten in such a way that the taxes will not drive money out of industry and commerce."

One of the principal railroads running out of London will put in pressed steel ties.

MONTANA TO HAVE HARD TIME ELECTION DAY

(Special to Post-Crescent.)

Helena, Mont.—Twelve separate ballots will be given to the voter of Montana when he enters the polling place in November 2. One, of course, is the regulation ballot with the names of the various parties and their many candidates.

Then come five measures passed by the last legislature and referred to the people for approval or rejection, three measures initiated by petition from the people, and three proposed amendments to the state constitution.

Why Kokomo's WHITE TREAD Delivers Great Service

For a tire to live long, it must be able, at times, to stand high speeds, overload and rough roads.

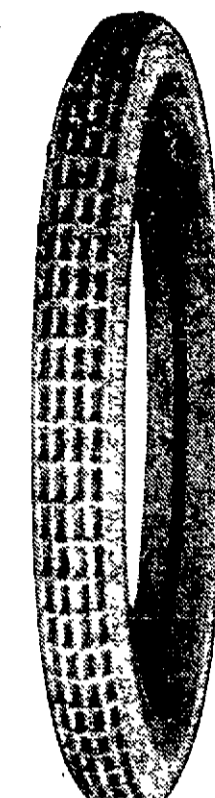

Kokomos are superior in this regard because:

—the white tread is yielding and thus distributes the load over a wider area of fabric foundation, cutting down the heat at high speeds, and lessening the movement of the fabric when overloaded or when shocked by sharp objects or rough roads.

—this white tread, because it yields, withstands cutting and chipping.

—at the same time has high resistance to all wear.

That is why Kokomos deliver more miles.

FANS HAPPY OVER GAMES SATURDAY

Appleton, Lawrence and Wisconsin Victories Please Local Men

Championship prospects of both Appleton high school and Lawrence college look better as a result of Saturday's victories. While Appleton was handling a severe drubbing to Sheboygan here, Lawrence was winning a terrific fight from Beloit in the state line city. The game here had no bearing in the state title inasmuch as Sheboygan was never regarded as championship timber. Beloit has always been one of the hard nuts which Lawrence is called upon to crack. With that opponent out of the way, McChesney and his cohorts feel a good deal better.

Saturday was a pretty good football day all around for Appleton fans. Fans here were more than pleased with the victory of the University of Wisconsin over Northwestern, in fact more interest was displayed in that game than in the local battles. The university is believed here to have the best team in recent years and fans are keeping their fingers crossed in hopes for a conference championship.

The Illinois-Iowa battle also attracted considerable attention here, many fans hoping that Iowa would be able to crush the Sucker tribe. Iowa was not equal to the task, however, and is now practically eliminated from the championship squabble.

Minnesota, once the most feared machine in the conference, was given another drubbing Saturday at the hands of the Indiana eleven. Ohio won from Purdue, which does not mean much except a stiff practice game in preparation for the struggle with the Badgers next Saturday. That game will be the most important in the western conference and will attract an immense crowd.

BADGERS WALLOP PURPLE, 27 TO 7

University of Wisconsin Team Springs Surprise in Saturday's Game

Madison—Conceded little or no chance to hold their opponents even, the University of Wisconsin Big Ten Surprise by subduing Northwestern University. The final count was 27 to 7.

From the very start it was evident that the Badgers were to be victorious. Six minutes after the first whistle was blown, Coach Richards' men scored the first touchdown.

Wisconsin won the toss, Northwestern kicked to Holmes, who returned 20 yards. Barr passed to Elliot for 20 yards. Barr to Elliot for 10 more. Barr went across for touchdown. Sundt kicked goal after six minutes. Wisconsin, 7.

Barr kicked to Northwestern's 11 yard line. Northwestern fumbled. Ball on one one-yard line. Grausnick kicked to Wisconsin. Sundt went through center for another touchdown and kicked goal. End first quarter, score, Wisconsin, 14; Northwestern, 0.

At the beginning of the second quarter Davey threw a forward pass to Weston over the goal line, scoring another touchdown for Wisconsin. Davey failed to kick goal. Northwestern was obliged to kick when it failed to advance the ball. After successive runs by Wisconsin, Collins went thru for another touchdown. Sundt kicked goal. When Davey fumbled a forward pass behind the Wisconsin goal line, Zsold fell on the ball for Northwestern's touchdown. Grausnick kicked goal.

LAWRENCE FAR TOO STRONG FOR BELOIT ELEVEN

Blue and White Eleven Wallops State Line School, 10 to 0 At Beloit

LINE PLAYS GREAT GAME Forwards Present—Stonewall Defense to Beloit's Plunging in Backs

Showing a complete reversal of form over that shown during the week's practice, Lawrence college football men defeated Beloit Saturday before an immense crowd in the Beloit field, 10 to 0. The Blue and White team outplayed the state line collegians in every department of the game, holding the losers to three first downs and never permitting them to get within scoring distance. The Lawrence line, heretofore regarded as extremely weak, presented a stonewall defense to the Beloit forwards, stopping every attempt to gain.

Not a single first down was made through the line. Beloit's far famed forward passes failed to gain consistently against McChesney's pupils. Only two passes resulted in first downs and the third first down came as a result of a run around end on a signal for a pass. The quarterback, primed to make the pass, could not find anybody to throw to and carried the ball himself.

Bill Smith, Lawrence's big center, was the big star of the game, playing rings around the best Beloit had to offer. Three men went against him but he managed to wipe the earth with all of them. Wheeler, playing on the end, and McGlynn in tackle, also played wonderful games, stopping the Beloit runners in their tracks and opening up big holes for the Lawrence backs.

Captain Kubitz was a marked man, Beloit sending three men against him on every play and consequently he was unable to do much. Elliot and Pond carried the ball most of the time, both distinguished themselves. Basing also performed well in the quarterback position.

The game was part of Beloit's homecoming celebration and the biggest crowd in years was in the park. Beloit was all set for a big celebration in event of victory but it was a pretty quiet town when the Blue and White squad pulled out.

Lawrence relied entirely on the kicking game in the first quarter, punting the ball on first down nearly every time. Pond was outkicking his opponent and just as the second quarter started Beloit was pushed back to its 20 yard line, where Brum and Smith broke through and blocked a punt. Brum recovering on Beloit's 15 yard line. Three plunges were necessary to carry the ball across the line for the first touchdown. The goal was kicked.

The remainder of the quarter was played in the center of the field with Lawrence holding the ball most of the time. Beloit began to open up its forward passes and spread plays with the start of the third quarter when it became evident that gains could not be made through the line. The secondary defense and the ends completely smothered the Beloit efforts, however, making it evident that only a fluke could give the state liners a touchdown.

McChesney began sending in substitutes as the third quarter ended. Doering attempted a drop kick from the 45 yard line in that period, the ball falling short by only a few feet. In the last period Olson went in for Elliot and he added three to the Lawrence total when he booted the ball between the uprights from the 25 yard line.

Brum was injured earlier in the game and Hunting was sent into the line. Later Doering was taken out and Clanton took his place. Roeder later succeeded Clanton. Grignon took Pond's place in the last period and Johnson went in for Basing.

Despite the bear stories emanating from the Beloit camp, the state liners sent their regular lineup into the battle from the start. Beloit was determined to win the game, believing that a victory over Lawrence meant the state championship.

Lawrence's playing was a revelation to fans who had seen the team in practice. The men showed a real fighting spirit and played real football every minute of the time.

BADGER GRIDDEERS LOOK GOOD FOR WESTERN TITLE

Madison—The University of Wisconsin football team loomed up stronger for the conference championship in its games with Northwestern here Saturday than it has in years. After sub and confined the play in the first half, Coach Richards sent in sub after sub and confined the play in the second half to straight football, with only an occasional forward pass so as not to display his new pet plays before the scouts from Ohio, Minnesota, Illinois and Chicago. Northwestern's lone touchdown was the result of a fumble after a punt and another fumble intercepting a pass on the goal line. Capt. Weston, at left end, was a marked man, Northwestern directing three men to care for him, but that he repeatedly broke up their interference and got his man for a loss. Elliot, Sundt, Holmes, Davy and Barr starred in the backfield and will be dangerous men against Ohio next Saturday at Columbus.

SHEBOYGAN IS NO MATCH FOR LOCAL GRIDDEERS

Appleton High School Wallops Invaders by 41 to 0 Score Saturday

BRIESE IS SHINING LIGHT Backfield Man Shows Heels to Visitors—Several Players Injured

The Appleton eleven won its fourth consecutive victory Saturday when it defeated Sheboygan high school, 41 to 0, at Lawrence field.

Although Appleton's team work was rather ragged, it took the lead over Sheboygan from the beginning of the game. Sheboygan kicked off, Briese receiving the ball and gaining 20 yards before being downed. Appleton lost the ball on failure to make their yards, but regained it after the Sheboygan back line tried vainly to make a gain.

The orange and white team began an earnest fight for a touch down. Briese was given the ball several times, and each time plunged through the line for good gains. The ball was carried to Sheboygan's 7 yard line and from there Roach, in one plunge, planted the ball over the goal line for a touchdown.

Sheboygan's end, Quast, received the next kick-off, but he was downed before he had gained ten yards. The ball again went to Appleton on downs. Jacobson grabbed a pass from Roach, and ran 40 yards for a touch down, but the referee ruled that Jacobson had gone out of bounds, and the ball was brought back to Sheboygan's 30 yard line.

Jacobson played Briese regularly, and with good results. Briese always getting a gain of at least four yards. Bloomer scored the next touch down from the 30 yards line on a pass from Roach.

In the second quarter, Bloomer distinguished himself by making long gains on end runs. In one play he gained 15 yards before he was stopped. Roach again scored a touchdown on a center plunge, after the ball had been forced to Sheboygan's 12 yard line.

Roach kicked off to Sheboygan, and the ball was downed on their 30 yard line. Sheboygan punted; Roach fumbled the ball, and Courtney who was just behind him grabbed the pigskin and ran to the 8 yard line. Appleton was penalized for holding, and the ball was brought back to the 25 yard line.

Bonini's leg was injured in the next play and he had to be taken out of the game, Stark taking his place as guard.

Jacobson called several times for forward passes, and a few of them were successful, although not more than 10 or 15 yards were gained by each one. Roach covered ground for Appleton by making several end runs, although twice he ran out of bounds and forfeited half of his gain each time.

The ball was one more forced to Sheboygan's three yard line; and from there Briese went over for a touchdown. Roach missed the kick at goal.

Just as the half ended, Zschackner, center, was laid out, and had to be helped off the field. In the second half Dunn played center, and Courtney took Dunn's place at full back. Bonini resumed his position as guard.

Jacobson brought the crowd to its feet when he caught a pass and ran 35 yards for a touchdown. A few Sheboygan players contested the score on the grounds that Jacobson had gone out of bounds, but the referee found by examination that the quarter back had remained inside the line by only a few inches.

Sheboygan tightened up, and began a series of gains through the Appleton line.

Cobb, Sheboygan's big left half, was a hard man to down and he made several gains. Wilbert, right half, also put up a good fight for Sheboygan. He had his ankle injured in the third quarter, and Frederick took his position. In the last quarter Sheboygan began a determined march for a touch down. Leberman, full back, made huge gains on end runs. Unfortunately for Sheboygan, the ball was lost on a fumble, and Roach punted out of danger. Jacobson called for a second punt. Center threw the ball so low that Roach missed it and the ball bounded back to Appleton's 40 yard line, where "Jake" fell on it.

Bonini's leg was injured a second time, and Stark went in for the game. Courtney made the last touchdown when he ran around the Sheboygan defenders and over half the length of the field. Hicks, Sheboygan quarter, made a desperate attempt to catch Courtney, but the halfback had too much speed.

Jacobson suffered an injured ankle and Briese took his place at quarter, and Taylor went half back for Briese. Sheboygan intercepted a pass and began a run down the field. Taylor proved himself when he downed the ball after it had passed every Appleton defender but Roach.

Nearly all of the subs were given a few minutes of play in the last quarter. The game ended with the ball in Appleton's possession.

Substitutes—Fredericks for Wilbert; Ballhorn for Leberman; Wilbert for Quast. Referee, Roberts. Head line-man, Waterpool.

LITTLE CHANGE IN GRID SITUATION

Saturday's Games Leave Championship Contenders Closely Bunched

(By Henry L. Farrell)
By United Press Special Wire

New York—Approaching the half way mark in the 1920 football season, all the big eastern eleven except Yale are still bunched and the west five of the conference eleven—Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio State, Michigan and Chicago—remain undefeated and Notre Dame has her slate clean.

Centre College is running along the same form that won the championship of the south last season, but as yet the Danville wizards have not met real opposition.

Saturday was expected to shake the sieve in the east for the first time at Syracuse, but Pittsburgh and the Orange eleven battled to a tie and the situation remained unchanged.

Of the western eleven, Wisconsin's victory over Northwestern gives her a slight advantage inasmuch as Northwestern has defeated Minnesota.

Harvard and Princeton won so easily against weak opponents that the critics had no opportunity for comparison. Penn and Dartmouth showed real form in defeating Lafayette and Holy Cross.

Yale presented a sorry plight while losing to Boston College. The big blue eleven played raggedly, tackled poorly and handled the ball terribly.

This week's battles are almost sure to leave a few contenders by the wayside.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA

LUXURIOUSLY finished and equipped, our five-passenger Sedan model is everywhere acknowledged as holding a place of leadership among the finest motor carriages of this country and Europe. It is unquestionably one of the most exquisite creations in the fine car field.

A tremendous satisfaction is derived from its ownership, for it is, above all else, a car of practical utility—a car whose daily usefulness is entirely independent of both season and weather.

Built on the highly refined Six-42 chassis, this light Sedan model establishes a new standard of efficiency is the operation of enclosed cars.

Its six cylinder motor, of original Paige design and construction, has all the speed that anyone could desire—together with an abundance of power which makes possible an acceleration from five to twenty-five miles per hour in nine seconds flats.

In short, the five-passenger Sedan has all of the essentials that make for complete comfort, efficiency and utility in a thoroughly fashionable car for general family use. It is easily, we believe, the greatest dollar-for-dollar value among enclosed cars on the market today.
